In the South Island an extended summer weather pattern continues and we are yet to have a frost on the Plains.

From many I have talked to, the roar was a bit flat due to the high temperatures. There was a lot of hunter activity also, but I have seen some great trophies taken across the country.

I hope everyone managed a bit of time in their favourite patch or a new one. Over the weekend I went away for an overnighter with family and Dave and Joshua Keen. Dave put the acid on me to get away for a couple of days - it has become the norm to have too much to do and no time for hunting. Cheers, Dave! Results were good for my daughter who took her first deer, a nice Fallow for the table, and my oldest boy scored a nice buck for his efforts. Dave and Joshua eventually got some cooperation and filled their quota as well, so a great weekend. I had never experienced the "croak" and it was going off. A great experience and we all learned about Fallow and their behaviour.

The 25th of April was the due date for submissions on the latest Arms Act regulations. Thank you to all that made submissions. Members and branches alike should be heard. The regulations will significantly affect our ability to continue our sport and that must be demonstrated to the Police and politicians as it is quite clear from what is proposed, neither really have a clue when it comes to how individuals and clubs operate.

The Arms Act is now gone beyond the Frankenstein state it was in and is turning into a Godzilla of a thing that carries a cloak of regulations that, in my opinion and many others, creates a situation where no one can truly understand what is required and when and by whom. A complete re-write of Arms legislation is the only option to ensure sports people are heard and the law is sufficient to ensure safety of the general public yet allow for lawful use of firearms for sport and enjoyment.

Enjoy the rest of Autumn and good luck to all heading in on Tahr ballots or sneaking back out after that stag or buck you failed to connect with.

As always, a lot on. Conference administration is well down the track on a number of different fronts and appears to be shaping up nicely. I'm looking forward to taking a day either side and doing a bit of sightseeing while driving down and then back to Blenheim. Conference itself I think will have a different feel from previous events.

Late last year NATEX consulted with branches on a 1-page Strategic Plan which was subsequently approved by the Board. Gwyn has been busy breaking that down into a Business Plan which is up for discussion at our next meeting on 8th May. I'm not sure on the process after that at this stage but it may be close to approved by Conference time and then will become part of our communication out to branches. With everything we are currently doing, and the things we aspire to in the next couple of years, all now sitting in a single document it's a bit daunting but good to have a detailed road map laid out.

Our agenda for the 8th May hasn't been finalised yet but I suspect getting subcommittees up will also be on the agenda to move forward along with a range of other things we will try and progress once we are clear of Conference.

A Word from our Chief Executive, Gwyn Thurlow

Firstly, a thanks to all those members who renewed this March and April. Secondly, a big welcome to all new NZDA members who recently joined.

I hope you found using NZDA's updated online invoicing system simple and efficient. I also hope you've managed to use your new membership discounts found on your membership cards.

Most branches don't hold meetings or events in April because committees and members are hunting. I encourage everyone to get along to May meetings - after all, it's meeting likeminded hunters and sharing stories that is one of the biggest benefits of membership.

I have been busy on advocacy work, especially relating to firearms renewals and processing delays. Myself and Bill O'Leary (Fish and Game) were interviewed by RNZ recently - to listen to the full radio interview click here.

NZDA has written letters of concern to the Minister and that correspondence is shared below.

We also had NZDA in the news, and you can see the Newshub/TV3 interview that aired recently below.

I spent ANZAC day thinking about our service people and also finalising and submitting NZDA's Arms Regulation Consultation response to Police. NZDA calls for practical changes that are safety focused.

I took time off over the Easter period for the roar. I went hunting with GAC General Manager, Tim Gale for a week, followed by three days with my farther in Nelson Lakes. Both trips were enjoyable and I was thankful to spend the time in the bush with these gentlemen. It's great to walk the talk.

NZDA tahr rep, Dave Keen, is currently in the Alps on a tahr hunt in the Adams Wilderness Zone. I will follow him into the same block as I was lucky to draw the second period. We'll then both take the 2020 tahr survey winners on a trip after tahr. It will be interesting to see first hand the impact of DOC's years of culling. If you are on a ballot hunt, please fill out the surveys on the heli pads prepared by the Tahr Foundation and Kea Conservation Trust. The more data hunters contribute, the better our organisations can advocate.

Finally, 31st May is the cut-off date for our annual National Competitions. Forms need to be submitted by 5pm, 1st June to National Office. Please contact your branch secretary or the National Office team for help. The forms can be found under the "Conference" tab on our website. So, get out there and take photos, write, and participate in shoots. If you were lucky to secure a trophy head between 1 June 2020 and 31 May 2021, please enter it this year.

FIREARMS LICENSING RENEWALS AND EXTENDED PROCESSING DELAYS BY NZ POLICE, AND A REQUEST FOR THE USE OF MINISTER'S POWERS UNDER ARMS ACT

Dear Honourable Minister:

NZDA is writing to you as New Zealand's leading non-government body that represents recreational hunters and shooters.

We are concerned that the known delays with Police firearms licensing processing is unduly restricting otherwise diligent and law-abiding licensed firearms owners' ability to possess and use their firearms, including in the upcoming deer rookit to hunt and secure food for their families. The same issue will soon also impact duck hunters, which includes many of NZDA's members.

The licensing backlog is well documented but we note NZDA is getting daily correspondence from members and non-members detailing the stress Police delays are causing and the inconvenience caused by Police's firm position that their firearms must be re-located to the possession of a current licensed firearms owner's possession until their expired licence is renewed.

The Police delays mean that people are unable to legally participate in their sport, e.g. competitive shooting or gather food by means of hunting big game animals, i.e. deer, pigs, chamois and fawn. This issue is particularly acute presently because it is the annual deer rookit, which starts now and ends late April.

NZDA requests you use your powers under the Arms Act, specifically under section 74(1) of the Act, to extend the expiry date of expired firearm licences that have applied for their renewal but are affected by Police delays.

This action will mean that valid licence holders, who are caught up in processing delays, are able to participate in the rookit - the most important event on the hunting calendar for deerstalkers.

We believe there is no public safety concerns with granting such an extension because the extension would be limited to renewals being licence holders who have been vetted by Police and adjudged as fit and proper people.

Yours faithfully,

Gwyn Thutwa

Gwyn Thurlow
Chief Executive Officer
Office@deerstalkers.org.nz

Dear Gwyn Thurlow

I refer to your letter dated 25 March 2021, in which you wrote to me on behalf of the New Zealand Deerstalkers Association (NZDA), regarding the backlog of firearms licence applications.

You have suggested that I use my powers under section 74(1)(a) of the Arms Act 1983 (the Act) to provide temporary extensions for existing licence holders.

I have discussed the matters you raised with Police. It is important to note that the Arms Act does not give the Minister of Police the powers to override the provisions of the Act in the way you have suggested.

The Act has provided the explicit ability for regulations to extend the expiry date of a licence in narrow circumstances as set out in section 74(1)(aa). These specific circumstances are "in the event of a pandemic, an epidemic, or an emergency being declared under the Civil Defence Emergency Management Act 2002". These circumstances do not currently apply. In all other circumstances a firearms licence is issued for ten years and expires on the specified date.

I acknowledge the impact on hunters who may have applied for a new licence well in advance of the expiry date of their current licence and have yet to receive a new licence before their licence expires. While inconvenient, I am advised that people who are not holders of a current licence are still able to participate in deer hunting provided they are under the immediate supervision of a holder of a current licence holder.

While the processing of applications was impacted by COVID-19, I am advised that the overwhelming reason for a licence expiring before a new licence is issued is due to licence holders submitting their applications close to or after the expiry date.

Police has taken steps to remind licence holders to apply in sufficient time and to progress the COVID 19-extended applications by:

- continuing to notify licence holders 4 to 6 months in advance of licence expiry;
- following up if an application is not received three months before expiry;
- reminding licence holders of the implications of possessing firearms while holding an expired licence;
- improving the licensing process by increasing the guidance to decision makers;
- increasing throughput by refining the administrative processes; and

Revalidation of Instructor warrants is still on going and I would remind any instructor who hasn't sent in their paperwork yet to get on to it if you want to retain your warrant.

This year we will be reviewing the standard operating procedures to make sure they are still fit for purpose. I would appreciate any feedback from the coal face on changes or updates you would like to see made.

This year at conference we are running an instructor networking session on the Friday before the opening ceremony. Our host branch instructors are organising some activities for us to make it fun, so I would encourage any instructors thinking about attending to sign up and get to Queenstown to be part of this event.

I trust everyone has enjoyed a good roar season this year after the disappointment of the covid lockdown last year.

If you have any questions or concerns please get in contact with me directly, happy hunting.

Pureora Forest Park Hunting Competition

As the annual DOC Maniapoto district organised hunting competition was cancelled last year due to Covid 19, there were great expectations for a successful and well supported Pureora hunting competition this year.

Local hunters did not disappoint, with some excellent red deer heads entered on prize giving day, 18 April. Douglas Score measurers from Waikato, Te Awamutu and Thames Valley branches measured the biggest 20 heads, and National AHT Chief Judge Mark Sarjeant compiled the list of top 10 winners as well as the "average D/S of all measured entries" which won a helicopter trip into the Ruahines.

This annual competition has been running now for 34 years and the first prize of a free mounted head has been made each year by Vern and Louise Pearson of Sika Country Taxidermy - a tremendous commitment.

A static display on the history of Norman Douglas and the Douglas Score was a back drop for a "Guess The Douglas Score" of a red deer head and members from Waikato and Te Awamutu branches enjoyed friendly banter while offering advice to those family and hunter participants.

GAC General Manager Tim Gale attended the day and briefly addressed the crowd of hunters and family about the role of GAC.

Immediate Past President Trevor Chappell had worked with DOC on organising and securing donors to ensure the competition was a success and the intention is to enlarge next years competition to include pig jaws that are taken from the Pureora ranges.

NZDA Competition Manager Mark Sarjeant was also featured on the Te Awamutu Courier, click the image below or here to read the full article.

THE COUNTRY

Scoring veteran to oversee Pureora hunting competition

A 36-year veteran of New Zealand's hunting scene will oversee judging in the annual Pureora Forest Park Hunting Competition this year.

The popular competition, managed by the Department of Conservation's (DoC) Maniapoto District staff, is traditionally held in the annual deer roar in autumn.

It was cancelled in 2020 due to the Covid-19 nationwide lockdown, but returns for 2021 with the addition of pig jaw scoring to be overseen by the Te Kaiti Pig Hunting Club.

New Zealand Deerstalkers Association (NZDA) competition manager Mark Sarjeant will manage the scoring in this year's event, drawing on 30 years' experience with the Douglas Score system used to determine winners.

Organisers say he has a good understanding of the history of the Douglas Score system and how hunting in New Zealand has evolved.

"I did my first Douglas Score course in 1991," says Mark.

"In 1991 became a National Training Antler Horn and Tusk (AHT) judge and in 2004 I took over running as NZDA AHT competition manager.

"The first year the Waikato branch of the NZDA used the Douglas Score was 1998. It was National Training Antler Horn and Tusk judge Mark Sarjeant.

"We see a lot more women and children involved, but also now we're seeing people in their 90s taking it up," he says.

"I think it's to do with getting out in the outdoors, if you're going to go for a tramp, why not take a rifle with you? You might see something."

He anticipates a popular and successful competition for 2021 with high interest from hunters who could not get out into the bush in 2020.

"I'm picking it'll be a good roar this year, because a lot of people didn't get out last year. You can only go so long without hunting, you really miss it," he says.

NZDA and its local branches in Te Awamutu and Waikato are providing support for the event.

NZDA will have an informative display and stall on the prizegiving day — Sunday, April 18.

Mark will also be attending to help train other judges.

The competition opened on March 12 and all heads and jaws must be entered by midday on April 18 at DoC's Pureora Workshop on Rueryville Rd — with prizegiving to follow.

There will be activities for both the kids and the adults held at the prizegiving day including a roaring competition, a wildlife photography contest and kiwi evasion training for hunting dogs, all free of charge.

There are a range of prizes across several categories in this year's competition, thanks to various local sponsors.

These include the highest Douglas scores, average Douglas scores, youth shots, jaw draw, ugliest jaw and ugliest red deer head, top 10 Douglas scores and spot prizes throughout the event.

To enter, hunters are required to have a valid hunting permit for Pureora. Competitors should pre-register heads or jaw at an official recording site.

Competition rules and details of recording stations can be found at doc.govt.nz/news/events/regional-events/pureora-forest-park-hunting-competition or click News and Events on the DoC website.

adopted by NZDA in 1957.

"The whole idea of the system is you can use it to compare. We can look at heads from the 1950s and 1990s and can compare them to today.

"When I first started measuring back in the 1990s you never saw a red deer head that would score more than 300.

"Now half the entries at nationals are more than 800. They are just getting better and better."

Mark says hunting has changed over the years he has been participating.

KEA
TRUST

Tahr hunters contributing to kea conservation

The NZ Tahr Foundation, Kea Conservation Trust and Game Animal Council have collaborated to develop the Tahr Ballot Kea Sightings Project.

With the annual tahr rut getting underway, tahr ballot block holders are being asked to record their kea sightings to help conserve kea in the central Southern Alps.

“Kea are a fantastic part of the mountain hunting experience in the Southern Alps, and given how much time tahr hunters spend in the backcountry they are ideally positioned to help monitor these special alpine parrots,” says NZ Tahr Foundation Scientific Advisor Kaylyn Pinney.

Each hunting party receives a Tahr Ballot Kea Sightings Project pamphlet along with the NZ Tahr Foundation’s tahr returns and information booklet at the helipad before being flown in to their ballot block. They are requested to record their kea sightings on the pamphlet and submit it along with their tahr returns in a dedicated box at the hanger following their flight out.

To read more about the project, click here.

In December 2020 the NZTF sent a proposal to the Department of Conservation requesting that the NZTF begin to administer the tahr ballot from 2022 onwards. The Department had previously offered the ballot administration to the NZTF before we were entirely established (pre 2018).

NZTF believe that by administering the ballot, the NZTF can acquire more accurate population based information which can be used to establish if we can have more tahr, need less or if hunters need to be made aware of any population biases within the area.

It also establishes a base for other conservation initiatives and begins to forge a more positive relationship for the Department and the hunting sector around the management of tahr. The Department disagreed however, read the full post here.

Southern Lakes Branch Ladies Hunt

It seems the South Island ladies are "out there doing it" too.

Organised by the Southern Lakes Branch, Anzac weekend saw 17 women from a number of branches, ranging from age 22 to 67, come together and hunting hard despite the uncooperative and cold, wet weather.

Southern Lakes branch member and organiser Katie Dugan said "It was such an empowering weekend in so many ways, full of learning and experience and bonding. Everyone saw animals and we even got 3 trophies on the board - Red, Fallow and Chamois".

Katie went on to say that "This was a great opportunity to showcase that hunting is not just for men, in fact as a result we have picked up a number of new members that bring some highly talented skills to the club membership and volunteer committee."

Full write up and photos to follow in the next edition of the quarterly Hunting and Wildlife magazine.

A great way to spend the Anzac long weekend.

Hunting Apps

How you can help do your part for conservation

Are you using any hunting apps on your trips? Both the Sika Foundation and Fiordland Wapiti Foundation have released convenient and easy to use mobile phone apps which allow you to submit data on any Sika/Wapiti, native birds, predators and rubbish you come across in your journey.

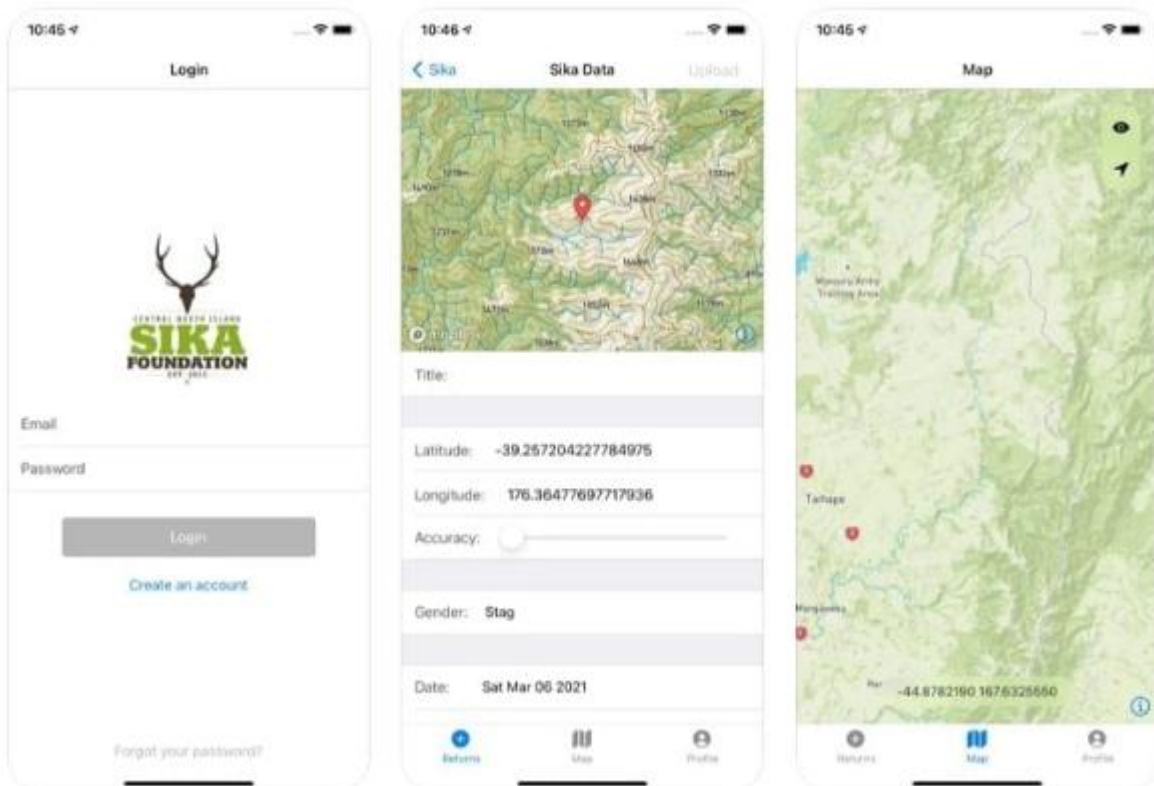

If not, download the apps now so you can easily submit important info on the Sika/Wapiti deer harvest in the Central North Island or Fiordland area.

Both organisations use the data for conservation purposes to better understand and monitor the herd. It's a game changer for their data collection programme, so download and start using it today:

Incorporated societies facing major reform

The Incorporated Societies Bill 2021, which was introduced to Parliament last month, is set to bring about large-scale reform of the not-for-profit sector.

The goal of the Bill is to put in place a modern framework of legal, governance and accountability obligations for incorporated societies and those who run them.

One change that will require immediate action by many societies once the legislation is passed is the requirement for societies to have a constitution which meets the new standards imposed by the legislation.

NZDA branches are incorporated societies, so will need to adopt a constitution. It's important our committees are across these changes.

'Designer' deer herds touted to help farmers

A researcher looking at the different foraging behaviours of deer says it could help farmers create the perfect "designer herd" for their land.

AgResearch associate Bryan Thompson said individual deer had preferences for where they wanted to feed - ranging from intensive lowland farms to rugged high-country hills.

He said there was a range of factors that influenced where a deer wanted to forage, including its personality, health, social interactions, past experience, food availability and diet.

Thompson said if those foraging behaviours were better understood, it might be possible to create herds with deer that were suited to specific farms.
